Buzzard's Roost Earns Gold at SF World Spirits Competition

Louisville-Based Brand Recognized for its Single Barrel Rye Whiskey

(Louisville, KY) April 6, 2020 - Buzzard's Roost Sippin' Whiskey took home a Gold medal for its Single Barrel Rye Whiskey, 105 proof, at the San Francisco World Spirits Competition. This is the brand's first entry into the prestigious competition and the first time winning high honors in the "Rye Whiskey" category.

"I've always been a bourbon fan and prefer a rye that captures flavor notes often found in bourbon, like vanilla and cinnamon," said Jason Brauner, Master Blender of Buzzard's Roost and Founder of Bourbon's Bistro. "We're able to impart those flavors to our whiskey through our innovative aging process."

Unique to the industry, Buzzard's Roost uses proprietary barrels each charred to a specific temperature in order to create certain flavor profiles. Once the whiskey is selected, it is re-barreled using the special barrels and aged in Kentucky warehouses.

"Our goal with Buzzard's Roost is to provide a unique experience with every release," said Judith Hollis Jones, President and CEO of Buzzard's Roost. "We have several new releases in the works and look forward to crafting more award-winning whiskey."

Buzzard's Roost Sippin' Whiskeys are distributed throughout on-premise and off-premise accounts in Kentucky. The portfolio includes Single Barrel and Very Small Batch rye whiskey expressions.
